

About the Writer

Dave Quigley and his dog, Annie (2003-2008)

Dave graduated from Keene State College in 1975 with a BA in Elementary and Special-needs Education. He taught 1st, 3rd and special needs classes in the Amherst and Milford NH School Systems from 1975-1980. He was married and helped bring to this world three beautiful children; Ryan, Ross and Tara who will always be at the center of his life. David left teaching in 1980 to better provide for his family but working with children has always been his favorite career.

David was the Milford Parks and Recreation Director in 1979, coaching and winning the town's one of only two State Swimming Championships. During the mid-70's and up to 2007 David directed Alpine Ski Racing at Temple Mtn. and Crotched Mtn., winning two state championships for Milford Area High School and placing a number of young racers on the NH State and National Ski Teams. The most important piece to this short story about Dave Quigley is that during the six years of teaching he wrote and produced two children's musicals. Parents, teachers and most importantly, children loved his productions. A number of folks who attended the last of the two, "I Found the Moon in a Tune on Halloween" gave Dave a lot of encouragement to write more. Unfortunately, life was at work and Dave's focus was his family and work and there was little time for much else, especially in writing and producing a musical. The seed was sown and he promised himself that he would write one more musical before his years were done. During those early years the family piano was in the boy's bedroom and even though his children were too young to remember the musicals, they've maintained wonderful memories of falling to sleep listening to their father play. David's dream is shared by his three children who can't wait to see in-person what they've been hearing about for all of these years.

To find out more about David's business and high technology background goto:

www.emersoncommunicationsgroup.com